I'm moving beginning of sept, and the cost of moving is worse than i expected, so i wonder if i could defer until sept 19 to pay again? I adjusted the spreadsheet.

I remember when you moved into that building. I remember getting you that bed, assembling it, disassembling it, and moving it from your first ever apartment to your second. I remember ordering your furniture, unpacking the flatpacks and spending a few evenings putting it together.

I think I wrote a rent check for every month you lived there except this month. I remember exactly when I gave you that last check. We let the debt get out of hand but I didn't mind writing your rent checks when you need me to.

Moving is a good time to purge your life of the useless old junk you no longer need.

Yes, you can defer until Sept. 19.

I hope all is well and you had a smooth move.
As one of your creditors, I should have more contact information than an email address.
Please send me your current mailing address.

Hello W ,

I am concerned because you didn't respond to my last email. Please let me know that you are well? And that I don't need to find another way to contact you.

Hello,

You don't need to find another way to contact me. You have my phone, my email, my DOB, and my work address, so you can find me using those when I failed to pay you. Thank you.
